Words from Our Chair, Gary Madden

I want to thank everyone who participated in our first ever virtual Don Jennings event. Considering the difficulty that some of us face with accessing Zoom meetings, our event was very well attended this year. It was personally so frustrating to so suddenly lose our internet connection in the middle of our program. Thanks to Meg Batzer for her quick thinking in inviting us down to her home and getting us back on. I was so honored to be this year's recipient of the Don Jennings award. It means a great deal to me to be recognized in this way.

Everything is running smoothly at our office on River Street. It is turning out to be a better location than we expected with lots of people coming in every day. Of course, everyone wants Biden/Harris yard signs. We are doing our best to keep them available. We have had many out-of-towners stopping in looking for signs. Apparently, everyone around the state is having trouble keeping up with demand. If the demand is any indication of how fired up people are then we are in for a very big blue wave in November. If you haven't stopped by, please do so soon. We have plenty of materials for all candidates including local candidates and others. In particular, pick up some materials about our MI Supreme Court candidates McCormack and Welch and share them with friends and family. They will, of course, appear on the non-partisan portion of the ballot, so don't forget to vote for them.

In the coming weeks we will be asking for volunteers to help out in various ways. Look for volunteer notices as they come out. We must all do our part to defend our Democracy against this assault from extremists who are playing on fear and division and even, in recent days, sowing the seeds for civil war. Simply making financial contributions, while very helpful, is not enough in these troubled times. We all need to stand up and not be afraid to express our opinions, however and whenever we can. We need to write letters, make calls, demonstrate, attend rallies, and make some noise. If we fail to fight for our principles, our freedoms can easily slip away, as they did in Germany in the 1930's.

We are all saddened by the death of Justice Ginsberg this week. She was a real giant in the defense of human rights and the cause of justice. She will be terribly missed by our country. We all know what is now at stake. We know how Republicans treated President Obama's nominee to the Supreme Court, how they blocked his appointment during the final year of President Obama's term in office. They have already declared that their past behavior should not apply to filling Justice Ginsberg's position. We cannot allow this president another Supreme Court nomination so close to the election. Be prepared to take action to stop such a move!

Finally, I want to again thank Paul Glaser for his consistent service to our party and congratulate him on receiving this year's Chairman's Service Award. Speaking of service to the party, in November, we will be selecting the various officers of our Executive Committee. The current officers have been serving for four years and some are growing weary. Please consider serving in one of these capacities. Members of the nominating committee will be contacting everyone, asking party members to step up to the plate. New energy will keep our party healthy.

Meister challenges Franz for Onekama Township Supervisor

For 18 years, David A. Meister has been the supervisor of Onekama Township running on the Republican ticket. This year he ran as a write-in candidate in the August Democratic Primary. He will be on the November ballot as a Democrat. His Republican challenger is Ray Franz.

One of Meister's major goals has been to provide a sewage treatment system for homes and businesses around Portage Lake to protect the lake and expand business opportunities. Finally, in 2017, the township joined with Bear Lake to launch the Two-Lakes Sewage Treatment Project. This project will be funded through US Rural Development grants and loans.

Meister was planning to retire this year, but the pandemic put a hold on the Sewage Project and he rethought retirement. He wants to make sure the Sewage Project is completed, and feels a strong need to stay involved to make sure that happens.

Being a Pierport resident, I can attest that as Supervisor Meister defended public access to Lake Michigan against a great deal of pressure from wealthy landowners. My respect for David Meister's leadership grew from that point. Knowing what I know about Ray Franz, the darling of the tea party Republicans, I am thrilled that he is running again. Onekama residents!! Please support David A. Meister for Township Supervisor.

RE-ELECTU.S. SENATOR GARY PETERS!

Gary Peters knows that our economy like the one he grew up in, and he have to stand up for small businesses. every three jobs, and Gary believes strengthening the backbone of our is powered by middle-class families knows to keep our state strong, we Small businesses create two out of that protecting them means state.

After working for over 20 years in business, Gary understands the unique challenges that small businesses face. During his time in the Senate, he has cut red tape and fought to ensure small businesses have the resources to thrive.

Gary knows that Michigan has the greatest workforce in the world, and we have to expand their opportunities for our state to thrive. That's why he's working to create jobs by fighting to ensure Michigan is a manufacturing hub, and is expanding access to workforce training and skilled trades programs that have literally built our state's economy. Gary knows that for many families, a certificate that leads to a good job can mean just as much as any four-year degree and has passed bipartisan legislation to expand career and technical education, apprenticeship programs and trade school opportunities for high school students and veterans.

Gary knows that no one should have to make the impossible decision between paying their medical bills and putting food on the table. That's why he was proud to vote for the Affordable Care Act (ACA) and has opposed attempts to repeal it to protect the 1.7 million Michiganders with pre-existing conditions who depend on the ACA for protections.

Gary knows that far too many seniors and others who rely on prescription medications are struggling to keep up with their skyrocketing costs. That's why he helped lead and pass bills to get generic versions of insulin into the market more quickly, expand access to more affordable generic drugs and prevent big pharmaceutical companies from monopolizing the generic drug market. In addition, Gary helped introduce legislation that would allow Medicare to negotiate drug prices to keep costs low and make sure more Michiganders can afford their life-saving medications.

Most recently, Gary was named one of the most effective Senators by the non-partisan Center for Effective Lawmaking. He was ranked the fourth-most effective Senator of the minority-party in advancing and enacting legislation the last session of Congress – all while serving in his first term in the Senate under a Republican-controlled White House and Congress.

On the Senate Armed Services Committee – and as Ranking Member of the Emerging Threats and Capabilities Subcommittee – Gary is focused on creating a strong and innovative military that is prepared for the rapidly changing nature of warfare.

Gary knows that protecting our natural resources for future generations from threats like climate change will benefit both our environment and America's economy. President Obama signed into law his legislation to strengthen oversight of oil and gas pipelines and help prevent disastrous oil spills.

Benson: Michigan could see up to 70% percent turnout in November

Secretary of State Jocelyn Benson on Wednesday predicted more than 5 million Michiganders will vote in the presidential election and said she expects more than 3 million will do so by absentee ballot.

That would nearly double the record 1.6 million absentee ballots cast in the August primary and rival total turnout from the 2008 presidential election. Already, 2.3 million Michigan registered voters have requested absentee ballots, said Benson, adding she expects about 60 percent to 70 percent of the state's 7.5 million voters to cast ballots.

Michiganders voted to expand absentee voting in 2018, and the coronavirus pandemic has likely spurred additional interest in the option. But voters can still cast ballots in-person on Nov. 3, Benson reminded.

"When you do show up on Election Day at your local precinct, you will be greeted by workers wearing masks, gloves and face shields," she said in a COVID-19 news conference with Gov. Gretchen Whitmer. "You will find the precinct to be sanitized with social distancing guidelines in place."

Benson, Michigan's top election official, thanked the Senate for approving legislation on Tuesday, September 15, that would allow clerks to open absentee ballot mail envelopes a day early to prepare them for counting on Election Day. If approved by the House, clerks hope the pre-processing will help them report election night results in a timely fashion.

But Benson wants to give clerks more time and implored the Legislature to do more to ensure every vote is counted, such as allowing absentee ballots that are postmarked by Election Day to be tabulated even if they arrive by mail a day or two late.

Benson has repeatedly rebutted President Donald Trump's claim that mail-in voting is unreliable and will lead to voter fraud. On Wednesday, she warned that the state is expecting efforts to mislead or misinform Michiganders about their legal voting options and announced a new reporting email address: misinformation@michigan.gov.

"If you see or hear anything suspicious, anything that sounds wrong or that is just plain confusing about your right to vote this year, report it to my office," Benson said.
